Families with Older Teens Wanted for Usability Testing - Saturday, April 12

Klein Buendel, Inc. in Golden, CO is seeking families interested in participating to test a web-based program designed for teens and their parents.

Your feedback and opinions are important to help us develop a website for families to keep their teens safe from alcohol use and to help teens make healthy choices about dating and relationships.

Each family will receive $100 for participating in our testing, which involves participants individually going through activities on the prototype website and providing feedback.
